

METHOD OF CONFORMAL COATING USING NONCONTACT DISPENSING

Abstract of the Disclosure

5 A method of noncontact dispensing is provided for conformal coating applications by jetting a viscous material onto a substrate. Dispensing by a jetting process results in small wetted areas thus providing highly discrete and selective conformal coating capabilities. Enhanced selectivity permits the coating of small areas and geometries and provides excellent edge definition
10 between coated and uncoated areas.